

What Is The Source?

And realize this, that those things that come to you now, to you through this channel, it is the will of God that rather than through this channel that He may speak to each of you personally in your own heart. Would He then have each of you become a channel in the way of this one through whom we speak? Understand this, that this is not to be because it is unnecessary. And as it becomes unnecessary, that this channel be used in this manner, this will cease to exist, even through this channel.

For what reason does it exist now? Simply that there might be a voice among you to express outwardly what comes of God in each and every individual heart. And we would have you understand that nothing has come through the mind or heart of this channel, nothing has been spoken of through this channel that you each may not speak, feel, realize and speak of through that same God who lives in your own heart. You ask then, "What of the Initiate?" Must one be an Initiate to experience these things of God? We would answer "no". This is not the criteria as has been given. It is simply that those who were, those who have had this experience had as might be called a head start before each of you because they have knowledge of God from ages past. And it was with more ease that they approached and it was with ease that the knowledge of God was spoken through these that it might become known to each of you.

Seek then those things of God then in your own heart and the knowledge of God that has come through you, through this channel to you in the language that you now speak, all this knowledge will be poured out in your own heart, your own mind and will become real to you in a way that far surpasses anything that can be spoken in your language because what will come to you will be a sharing of the experience itself.

Rather than hearing of God, rather than learning of Him through words of another, you will experience God. You have had an inkling of that tonight and before in your individual experiences. Could that be expressed, could that blessing be told that another might understand? You realize that it cannot. There are limitations of language. God is not so limited. Therefore, we find that when this channel is shut off, when no longer are these Readings given, that what will be given in its place will be far greater. And it will dawn inside each of you as the words speak directly from God going through no channel, but God expressing Himself in all Knowledge through the heart of each one of you. Now, this then is that Great Blessing that God has in store for each of you.

Before giving those instructions, we would once again repeat that that has already been given: This Source is naught but a manifestation of God. If thou art thankful for a blessing, doest thou thank the blessing or Him who gave? Never, Never, address this Source in that manner of thanksgiving or prayer. Show thy thankfulness to God. The leadership, the guidance, the wisdom, the admonishment, all come from Him.

Now, there are many of the servants who are at the call of God and who would speak His name that would deny this Source. Now, for the purpose we would bring this message that you might deliver to them.

And this would be the message: "Have I not oft spoken with thee in the small hours of the night as thy have laid upon thy bed? Has it not been often times in the evening (you) laid yourself down to sleep, that in the evening hours of rest I came and spoke with thee? And in that moment thy sermon was born, in that moment instructions came that you might carry to My flock."

Have you not in those moments often thought of questions asked you during the day of problems of this one or that one that should be presented to the Lord? And in your thinking of these things in these hours were not the answers given of the Holy Spirit? Would it not seem then that this is the best hour, the best time and indeed the best way to seek instruction from the Spirit of God? And hast thou not thought often in they own mind, in these moments when the words of the Holy Spirit were coming into thy own mind, 'Oh, that I could speak with this one now and relate to him that message that is now coming into my own mind from the Spirit of God'?"

Now, then, recognizing this experience and knowing that indeed that still, small voice has spoken to thee in this manner and knowing indeed that thou hast wished that thy could relate that message in the moment that as was given, how then can thou condemn one who has done so? Indeed, is it not the foolish man who condemns that which he has not observed or studied and knows not of? Be careful and try the spirits if they are of God and try them by their works, the fruits which they produce. And know that him who denies me, him will I deny before my Father which is in Heaven."

We would have this seeker attempt not to listen to the words of this voice during the time of the giving of this Reading, but attempt to place self in a state of Nirvana or, that is, lack of conscious awareness of the body; lack of conscious awareness of the surroundings; a meditational state that would be open and easy and free –flowing; that that which is given through these lips will be heard, will be felt in the heart simultaneously with the speaking thereof. That is, that there might be the confirmation within of what is truth so that this seeker might not be required to accept that which comes from the lips of another and indeed it would be well that all who come seeking the Source would approach in such a manner, for that which is truth, that which will be guidance, always will be spoken within in the heart and there will not be the necessity to depend on the lips, the words of another. All that may be known of God is written already in thine own heart. The best that can be given through any Source, whether carnate on your plane or whether spirit, is an awakening, a response of that which already lies within.

The body becomes as well that which it comes in contact with, not only the auric fields of energy but that which is created within the mind or thought, that which is spoken, that which is heard, that which is assimilated becomes self and are the tablets, the tablets built around self; the indications of that which the soul is. The writing then upon the Akashic Records is not only the records of the soul but is the soul, because you become that which you have recorded.
