Question: How can (name) become an instrument of healing?

Answer 3 : Yes, it has been given that the soul has ability to channel those great energies that would be for the uplifting, not only in consciousness, not only of the mind, the spirit but in the physical body, all for the reparation, as well.

Now for this mind, for this particular consciousness, and the manner in which this soul would receive and pass on to another, these laws well may be at work within him, that there be the dedication of the hands to that particular purpose, that dedication daily, at specific time each day, until the thought the purpose within become programmed, saying:

"These hands are the hands of a healer. These hands are dedicated to the Father for His use, for His experience, and can channel, can awaken the God in others, that there might be the healing, the awakening, in others."

As there is the dedication of the self, of the hands, then, daily, at the same time each day, look upon the hands, until there is understanding in self, at all levels of self, that these are for particular purpose and the self, in awareness of the hands each time that there is an awareness of the hands, the fingers, the instruments. There will be brought to the consciousness the idea that has been spoken, that has been dedicated. The soul will think of these instruments as being instruments for the application of Divine energy.

Then look upon that of the right hand as being as of a positive pole, an electrode, a transmitter of energy, and the left as a receiver. Raising, then, in prayer the voice, the eyes, the consciousness to the Father, to those energies of Universal Power, to that of the lightning, the thunder, those of the energies that are obvious within the Universe, lifting the left hand al oft as if antenna, Apply the right, not at all for show, but for the inner power within this one becoming, then, a channel for that that will be structured within the mind realizing, "I am a line, a channel of communication, receiving with the one passing on to the other, that there would be structured the idea in consciousness.

Then look for, and receive, that energy of the Divine in the left and flowing through to the right, giving praise as it would happen. Study further: there are those who have not the concept of God as you have, and speak not the name of the Master Christ. Yet see His handwork in the elements and the reaction of the elements.

Those that you have known as Pallian of the islands of the Pacific, lifted their hands in this manner, to the storms, to the rain, the winds, the lightning so efficiently that they were able to take the electro-magnetic energy of the atmosphere, of the lightning itself, and channel through the self into a body from which the soul has passed and quickened it again to life in that that you refer as the raising of the dead. Know that these things having been done on your plane operate according those same laws in that time.

As in that day, so in this. As in that day, so in this. And never on this plane has there been a greater need for one to demonstrate, to understand, to channel, the power of the Father than now and never has there been one with greater ability to do so if giving the self to that experience and removing the self.

Then let it be, if you will, that being the desire, then, dedicate the self and allow that the Father would, knowing that he has and can say simply, "If it be Your wish then I dedicate myself in that manner and it shall be. "Having said, then, self will be stepped aside out of the way, and that experience may come.
