

The Lifting of Consciousness Is The Greatest Talent

“(A person) given the ability to lift the spirits of others, causing another to smile or laugh, has taken to himself the greatest ministry that may be selected on this plane, for there is not one higher,” the Source says.

Question 1: What is my purpose in incarnating on this planet at this time? What did I come here to learn and will I achieve it?

Answer 1: Yes, the purpose in coming in this time many fold, but primarily to the self, to take charge concerning soul development. That is, deliberate development toward the intended God state. We find this one returning again and again in positions that are of the development of abilities on this plane of leadership, of expressing responsibility and such, but not seriously considering the spiritual nature of self.

Rather new awakening for this soul within its self in this time, but an intent that has builded over several returns, several periods of time in that earth. That is, looking toward spiritual development, though without particular involvement.

We speak of this not in such a religious sense as formal application of spiritual truth, but rather the discovery of the sensitive, receptive part of self that opens to the greater spirit to guidance. Has developed a number of abilities that are for strength, for guidance of self and others in this time, abilities that are only begun to be realized. But another purpose in that this soul was among those taking action, assisting others in the transitions during the periods of breaking up in the last dispensation of Alta, of Atlantis. Was concerned with distribution of food, with settling of the peoples, with assisting great numbers of these in becoming accustomed to a foreign kind of life, and so has returned in a time of similar stress. That is, in preparation for those last days.

Has been attracted into this lifetime for those reasons, for the similar patterns in the earth, in this time, in the changing times. But as in that day, so again in this. The realization, the recognition of these conditions, very late in life. Late to take responsibility, though not too late for there are a great deal of abilities, talents yet untapped for this one that still may be useful to self and a great number of others. Such development, then, such responsibility for the self is the purpose in this time. In building such, accepting such, you'll build the conditions for the greater soul development in the coming times, the coming times of expression, whether on this plane or another.

Question 2: Is there a specific job or career I should seek training in? If so, give guidance and instructions I have to pursue in this. I am interested in acting, business, art, and people.

Answer 2: A great deal of talent in acting and expression. Should be pursued however, as avocation. And if the greater desire is to express the self fully and be of greatest service, then the vocation should be of a type that allows for physical contact, the touching of people, the sharing in these ways, especially such natures as cutting hair, so that there is the contact with the hands, the fingers for reasons of exchange.

This one has an unusual ability in the vibration about the self to cause others to feel that he is able to feel. That is, when there is the buoyancy, the happiness, the lifting about the self, can touch others and produce this kind of response in them or share such feelings. Lift. Can be very healing through doing such. Healing especially could be applied by this one to all as such would allow the handling, the touching with the hands. Not in formal ways as laying on of hands for healing or such, but in ways that others might not even be aware of, whether massage of the feet, the hands, the body, the head or through simple hair cutting or styling or such, the touching, the handling of people. This one can bring quite a service in these ways.

There are a number of other things that may be done for the service. If we would find the experiences of the past, such a number of possibilities for the developing of the self. This one in past times, in earlier lives, giving to the direction, the instruction, the leading of a great number of men, great hosts of men, in movements, guidance and such. And such can be considered in this time, though would require great deal of training and background, you see. Development not so practical in this time, but the training for such as mentioned not prohibitive and can give opportunities for great expression, contribution, healing, expression of self, enjoyment.

Then consider these and the acting as well. Talented. A great deal of talent in expression of particular characters, including mimicry and such, and should be pursued in that way. That is, pick out particular styles of character and mimic in the response, developing abilities to express this one and that one. A great deal of imagination with projecting these into roles and such. And the talents in doing such will begin to be recognized, especially in any single trail or attempt to portray. If there will be selected, then, an idiosyncrasy from any similar individual or character that might give distinctive personal label to the portrayal of any character, will gain notice of the peculiar talents that you have for such portrayal. Can develop quite an aside here as an avocation. And quite rewarding, satisfying in doing so.....

..... Use the opportunities then for the development of that you find about yourself that can be helpful in any way to others. And if through the sharing, the touching, the handling, if through lifting the consciousness, be aware of those as have been said even through these records, that one given the ability to lift the spirits of others, causing another to smile or laugh, has taken to himself the greatest ministry that may be selected on this plane, for there is not one higher.

Any who will give the self time and effort to producing smiles, laughter, lifting the heart, the consciousness of others, has then in himself as he succeeds, a greater ministry even than those who give voice to the deepest and highest and most challenging of concepts and precepts For the one speaks theory, the other produces the response of which the theories speak.

This one has an ability then, to engage other in the feeling as projected about the self. But be aware that one so able to cause others to respond with mirth, with happiness, with lifting of consciousness, has equal ability to draw others down to depths of despair and disappointment when he feels it. And when there is will or desire to do so, can project and produce in people about feelings of anger, frustration and such as quickly as there is the desire.

Then set that you would cause others to feel about, and be about the mission of producing the feelings of health, of happiness, of light heartedness and such, whether avocation or vocation. The lending of self to such as is the talent in this time will be of a great deal of service. This did not come only in this lifetime. Has been used, has been developed in the past and comes as latent talent. And as there is greater confidence in the self and studying of particular methods for bringing these to the surface, will be found greater usefulness, greater opportunities to use.

Then if there would be such vocation or job for the support of the self as give opportunity for the touching and communication with the touch, then study these. But study as well, carefully, the techniques of projecting the self and consciousness in acting and such. Not for the purpose of specifically pursuing a career and acting, but rather for finding and using as often as possible the abilities to produce upliftment of spirits to those about.

Paul Solomon Reading 0586 - L - 0478 – MA-01-WmK, New York , NY , 04/30/75

© 2007 The Paul Solomon Foundation